In the Google Help I see the ListEventsRequest, but I do not see how I can specify the calendar name. I would be happy if someone could point me in the right direction. I also found this but it did not solve my problem. A:

You need to specify a calendarId in the REST call. The calendarId is currently a calendar unique identifier, which can be found in the url of the calendar where you are looking at the events. It is often the ID of the calendar which you are looking at (see this for examples). A: First, you need to have your scopes in the Google API Console setup (reference). Second, I'm not going to write all the code for you. Let me know if you need help setting it up, and I'll try to help you with that. A: At the moment, the command line Google API tools only supports version 2.x of the API. I would suggest the following command: gclient auth action set [my-client] email_address [my-email] Where: [my-client] is the client application's client ID e79caf774b
