Dungeon Rushers soundtrack Review: “Dungeon Rushers is an epic dungeon romp. A game for the casual and hardcore rpg fan, a game with no spoilers and enough variety that new users will still get an enjoyable experience. I’ve played the game since it first came out on mobile last year and I’m happy to say that the game has improved in every aspect. The game is pretty polished overall, the story is interesting and engaging and the music and graphics are pretty damn good. Highly recommend.” - PCGamer

What's new in Squad Of Dangerous:

Remembers Mars The music of the Mars Underground symbolizes a certain age, the age of going to concerts with long hair, and when you finally found a band you really “got” it. The band’s music also has a certain air of coherence, familiar and still instantly recognizable. This rare insight into the group’s history comes from Jim Morrison’s old girlfriend Pam Butler, who after a while, became instrumental in Mars (no pun intended) music: “I always thought of myself as being kind of like Alice in Wonderland-Alice in Mars Underground,” she told me last week from Rancho Santa Fe, her home, where she was trimming a large rosebush. “I believe that the minor changes are what make the difference. I think that there are so many different kinds of people, which tend to conflict, but they can all find themselves if they look within, if they allow themselves the hard work of self-discovery. The day that Mars Underground began, Jim made me realize that this was his big project, that this is all that he was about, and that he needed to direct me how to deal with this: ‘This is what you’re going to do; this is how you’re going to live.’ I’ve always found my way. I can always find my way.” Back in the 70’s Butler was in a band with the guitarist Jack Nitzsche, and they played many of Jim Morrison’s songs. For example, on Mars Underground “Who’s Next”, Butler sang “I’ve gotta go, my love is calling....”; while Nitzsche was playing “You know I'm going to need your body". Butler and Nietzsche both agreed to let Bob Baille, who had played with Jim Morrison and The Doors, do all of the vocals on Mars Underground. In fact, Mars Underground's music sounds very much like Morrison's music. I've always been fascinated by Mars Underground due to the fact that they have a handful of shirts hanging on the walls of their record label Interscope Records HQ. Here's a photo of Mars Underground getting ready for "and its costumes as well" (as they sing in "Do You Wanna Move") by stripping down and waiting
