Just Act Natural, an asymmetric online multiplayer party game, requires you to be as deceitful as possible. Hiders and Seekers have distinct roles and players are matched up for a round-based party-gaming experience. A: I'd consider myself an avid gamer in the world of "party games" but I never thought I'd get into a game that requires lying to my friends. I'd also consider myself "good at" bluffing, so I'm sure I can pass the deception test. My main concern is the fact that I will be on my phone the entire time. But I think I can pull off this game and have a good time. Q: Fetching every document at once. Mongoose Is there any way to pull all the documents in one query. Here is my query: `supermarkets.find({ status: 'closed' }).sort('value').toArray((err, docs)=>{ if(err) throw err; console.log(docs); });` I am taking every closed document in one query and after fetching that query i am taking another query on same object (i am creating new query object in the same scope of above query) A: To improve performance, start at the bottom and work your way up. First pull the list of documents that you want. Now, if you're lazy, you can simply do: `Object.keys(results).forEach((key) =>...)` This may be very inefficient, though, so you might consider the following: `results.forEach((id) =>...)` In order to do this efficiently, you'll need to pull in the Aggregation Pipeline and use it for exactly what you need. `var pipeline = [{ "$match": { "status": "closed" } }, { "$sort": { "value": 1 } }]`; `supermarkets.aggregate(pipeline).toArray(...)`; Or, with the MongoDB 3.6 beta, you can skip the first stage by using the `lean()` method: `supermarkets.aggregate().lean().sort({ value: 1 })`

SM2 is a one of a kind puzzle game with turn-based combat mechanics. SM2 has been developing for three years by world-class indie game studio Metro Games, and we continue working on it. We have released a few games before (SM1) and everybody liked them. So, now we have added a few game mechanics and worlds to the game, and that is for sure. Each game level is a puzzle with its own logical solution. You just need to open all the chests. The hero is chased by monsters, they either wait in hide, or immediately attack him with his first step. There are some new worlds added in SM2 with new enemies: gnolls, bandits, predatory flowers, bloodthirsty slimes. The hero defeats a monster when strike the enemy on the next square. Avoid being the first one within striking distance of the enemy! To stop hero moving and "skip" turn, the hero can smash some objects or destroy monsters. You can also use the portal. From the very first levels you learn step by step how objects interact with each other in the game world. Success will be guaranteed! We have a lot of new features coming in the next game, and we can't wait to share them with you! Gameplay: The player controls a hero (you). The hero can walk, jump, run, dash, flip, and boost. The hero can also jump up to 3 squares by boost and unboost. The hero can collect items which give him special abilities: - Ignore fields of 4 squares to evade enemy; - Increase health by walking; - Change armor from a field of 2 squares; - Boost on the next step to skip turn; - Lock on the next step. To collect items, move over them or just touch them. The items also need to be collected. You can move the items around by the X and Y axis. You can move them around the grid, by tapping on them. Items will be lost if they fall to the ground. Each game level has two screens: the first screen shows items, the second screen shows the grid of the level. You can

Up to you, you can explore it freely in a sandbox and can complete the game by yourself. There are many enemy characters, items that grow apprentice swordsmen, and a simple and nostalgic game world. We will see here. And you can kill yourself in this game. At your own discretion. Enjoy the world of charming enemy characters, items that grow apprentice swordsmen, and a simple and nostalgic game world.

Story The jewel that contained the dragon was stolen by an evil swordsman. Unleashing the dragon from the jewels, the swordsman gained immense power and hijacked the tower of the kingdom. The king managed to escape, but the princess was captured. The king sent many troops to the tower to retrieve the princess and the jewels, but none of them came back alive. As a last resort, I decided to entrust everything to the "apprentice swordsman," the descendant of the legendary swordsman who once contained the dragon in a jewel. Many objected to sending the "apprentice swordsman" to the tower, but the king felt something. Find the legendary equipment that the legendary swordsman once wore, and regain the jewels and princess. The "apprentice swordsman" invaded through the hidden passage of the tower on a full moon night.

Game overview The purpose is to collect the legendary equipment in the dragon tower and defeat the demon swordsman and dragon. Also, a princess is captured somewhere in the tower. The princess can clear the game without rescuing, but rescue is required for the true ending. There are two types of attack methods, "dash attack" and "stomping". Dash attack Effective against all enemies, but also damages the player. Stomping (Attack that jumps and stomp the enemy's head) has some effects, and the player is not damaged. When you get the item, it will be displayed in the upper right corner of the screen and will be equipped automatically. When the life at the top left of the screen runs out, it will be respawned at the previous checkpoint (the position of the last coin picked up). It is saved at the position where you picked up the FD (floppy disk), and you can select the area at the start of the game.

The Captain is Dead OST is the original soundtrack to the 2005 film Ghost Rider: Spirit of Vengeance, and the eleventh soundtrack in the Marvel Cinematic Universe. It was released on July 21, 2009. It was composed by Carter Burwell, and includes selections of songs selected by Jon Moritsugu from the Disney Channel television show Lizzie McGuire, and the 2005 film of the same name. The songs are listed in the "Additional Song Credits" section. As was the case with the previous ten film soundtracks, the album did not appear on the charts. Background and composition Carter Burwell composed the score to the film, which was released on July 21, 2009, ten years since the release of the first Ghost Rider film. He also did the soundtracks for Ghost Rider: Spirit of Vengeance, Elektra, The Spirit, The Punisher and Ghost Rider: Spirit of Vengeance. In April 2007, Disney Channel announced that an original theme song for Lizzie McGuire would be used in the film that would debut in the fall. In May 2008, Disney released a teaser on their website featuring footage of the Ghost Rider motorcycle. In late August 2008, Disney released "Call Me Maybe", a song which would be the theme song for the film, and teased the release of a trailer shortly thereafter. In September 2008, Disney Channel released the song "Give Your Heart a Break" by Vanessa Carlton, and posted its music video on the official Disney Channel website. Music video director Chris Applebaum, who directed videos for Stars on Track, Poni Hoax, The Cheetah Girls and Jump, was chosen to direct the video for the song. The song charted on the Billboard Hot 100 at No. 41, and the Disney Channel Top 40 at No. 15. The song charted higher in Canada, which landed at No. 1, and was also at No. 1 on the Canadian Hot 100 and the Canadian Country Chart. The song's music video was dedicated to "true heroes and real true heroes". It was well-received, and won the Horizon Award for "Best Music Video of the Year" from the Direct Line TV website. On May 21, 2009, Disney released the official trailer, which featured the song "I Like the Nights" by recording artist Avril Lavigne. The trailer was watched by 132 million viewers, becoming the #1 most viewed trailer on the web on June 10, 2009. It was also the most viewed trailer in Nickel

In the 7-10 pound range, we recorded waves at over 4 feet with no surfers on the line. Leaning over a red laser pointer, I'm sticking to the wall. Evidently, it was that I didn't use the second hand to take the picture. In the video, the waves come from the left. Wednesday, December 7, 2013 Words fail me on this one. I'm reading a book in my bunker about coral reefs. In it, author Joseph Chang writes an account of the death of a PADI diving instructor off of a small Caribbean island called Roatan in Honduras. According to Chang, the instructor's body was recovered from the coral. He had been dead for about two days. Reading this passage, it took me a long time to get over the reality that there are organisms on the planet that are not only capable of creating a complex, complex animal, but they are so innately tied to the things that eventually kill them that they can't even take a shit without being aware that they're killing themselves. How can we humans, so remarkable in so many respects, be so uncaring about other beings that can't even communicate to us to share that they're in pain or even understand our intentions? How can we treat other beings as if we don't deserve to be hurt. Or as if we don't owe them anything? A friend of mine pointed out another amazing facet to this. As I read Chang's book, I realized that the coral and the whale both require sunlight to keep themselves healthy. So, who's going to save the coral? Not the whales and not the humans, apparently. The closest we can get to the coral, the aquatic plant that grew from the earliest marine animals, is a few feet away in the same ocean the whale is in. I
