You have been stranded in the wild lands of the mountains in a strange world. You're alone and you have only one weapon in your hands... In the game, you will have to slay lots of little monsters (there are different types) that attacks you in the worst of ways. You'll have to perform some tasks, facing lots of obstacles and fighting enemies to unlock new weapons and abilities. The game was designed in order to be played from different angles (first person and third person). You'll have to focus on precise hits and get a high number of them in order to slay the enemies, it won't be so easy. And with that more is more fun in my view. The game goes on the mountains so you have to make your way through a lot of obstacles that slows down you. The faster you are the faster you will unlock new weapons and abilities. The game ends after 100 waves or achievements. You can win perks and passive abilities. You'll have to level them to increase their value. You don't own the castle; you have to rent it. Beware of the giant boss at the end of each tower and of the wrong lands that will turn you upside down in an awful way. With ARROW VENTURAVR: You'll have to wake up at night; you'll have to fight the little monsters that attacks you.. If you don't kill the enemies you will be hit by death.. If you start to fail and you have no red arrows left.. You'll have to regenerate your health in order to get back to the fight.. This video will show you the concepts of Arrow Ventura VR : ✳️The game has been designed with VR Support and 60 FPS. ✳️The game has a lot of perks and passive abilities that if you won't spend them they'll disappear. ✳️The game will go on for 100 waves. I'm planning to upgrade the game with some new weapons, maps and items, also I'm working on some new gameplay elements that will make you feel like a videogame boss. I was planning to release the game on Steam, GoG and Oculus Store but unfortunately I have not the resources for that. So it will be released only on Headset Store. What is the Road to Go and release of Arrow Ventura VR? To progress well, you have to work on this game for a while. I've been working on the

! This is where you play as the fearless commander and lead your troops to victory on the board. To gain points, you must destroy the enemy commander. His crew has become your crew. How'd you become the Enemy commander? Simple. You turned from salvation to destruction. Blindsided by the enemy attack, you are in a pivotal position that is perilous for any comrade except for another enemy commander. If they decide to attack it, you're doomed. So it becomes your job to doom. This is the fourth type of captain that you can field. Each captain is unique with their rules and their powers. Each has a starting deck of over 100 cards. To gain cards, you must destroy your enemy commander. It's a similar style of gameplay as the Attacker players, but your commander's life points are worth more than the Attacker's. His crew has turned your troops into your allies. This is a totally new kind of game for me. I love the theme and the interaction that occurs. I do a little bit of Civil War and Bridge from time to time. You really have to move around the space quickly and use your limited resources. I'm just really in love with the crew style. It's a fun game night at the tail end of the year. Take the Leader - This is a deck where you can field 5 different commanders, all with different abilities Each time you participate in the game you will start with a new deck. You gain a card for each commander you manage to kill To keep track of this, you'll take the title of "Taker." Comrade Chief - This is the Mission Only game. You can field two attack crews, one defender crew and one driver crew. One person takes on the role of the defender and they command their crew to move their ships into line. The left defender draws cards to keep their life points high. The right defender draws cards to give their commander some precious hand to play cards. The defender player also plays a control deck. The defender will face an Attacker deck. Each card that a defender plays that has victory points builds a crazy chain of victory points that can erupt into a massive explosion. This is the battle. The attack deck is the game. The attacker attacks the defender by firing their ships at them. Sometimes the defender can block with
