It's a security risk so if your not prepared to download this script manually read the instructions, there is a huge better to read/learn about coding and how to prevent script hacking before changing/updating script codes. Any questions then do leave in the comment box or just pm me. A: I am assuming your code does not only work on your specific server and domain but also all other similar domains. If this is the case then the short answer is you need to sanitize the script code (as the script can be altered and manipulated). The longer answer is you need to understand how the parsing of the php script works. See how an attacker could manipulate the file and the php code of the website. Examples Inputs If the input is 'www.adventurewashington.com', then the attacker can inject javascript into the page, like so:

This will reload the page and redirect to google.com after 5 seconds. It is possible for this script to lie and exit early. Effectively, this script will take over the current session and inject javascript that will take effect immediately without telling the user. if statements Instead of if (isset($_POST['btnSubmit'])) { the attacker can change to this if (isset($_POST['submit'])) { Effectively, they can decide whether or not to submit the input. exec There are many ways to achieve similar results with php. The simplest way to do it is the following:

exec("curl "); //works only on local sites

This is probably what you

have. How it works PHP script files are parsed in order. The first line is parsed. The rest will be ignored. This means that if your script is: `$a = 'foo'; $b = 'bar';` then the order will be: `$a = 'foo'; $b = 'bar';` This means that `exec("curl` rock structure and a method of forming the same. More particularly, the present invention pertains to a method for forming a structural rock element, such as a wall or pier, having a smooth, stable outer surface. When a wall or pier is constructed in the earth, such as by excavation and piling techniques, the earth surrounding the resulting cavity is often disturbed, both in terms of compacted soil and unconsolidated materials such as loose silt or gravel, or the like. As a result, erosion, when there is movement of water at or near the surface of the earth, causes disruption of the surface of the land along the edge of the structure being constructed. This disruption in turn causes subsequent erosion of the adjacent land. In addition, wear of the construction materials, such as of pile caps used in constructing a pier, wears off the surfaces of the pile caps and pits the floor of the excavation that requires replacement and may cause disruption and further disruption of the surrounding soils. Thus, to minimize the above mentioned problems, it has been proposed to provide a cap for a wall or pier, such as a cover or cap made of concrete or other erosion-resistant materials. A: The problem is that you are trying to do string concatenation to create a single String object. The result of this: `modelName + " " + modelYear + " " + modelColor + " " + modelSize + " " + modelManufacturer + " " + modelDisplayName + " "`; is simply one large string that is appended to another. Instead, you should do something like this: `modelName.get(0) + " " + modelYear.get(0) + " " + modelColor.get(0) + " " + modelSize.get(0) + " " + modelManufacturer.get(0) + " " + modelDisplayName.get(0) + " "`; As an aside, to avoid needing to use `.get(0)` each time, I'd recommend using `StringBuilder`:

StringBuilder modelName = new StringBuilder(); modelYear = new StringBuilder(); // etc And when finished, just call.toString() to produce the single string you want. (Of course, if you know for a fact that the data will always be numeric, you can just skip the conversion and just add your strings together directly) Q: Have to "Close" the console before entering code on eclipse Before code is entered on eclipse, I have to press exit button in console like the picture below. However, I don't know why eclipse do this work, and I want to prevent it. Anyone knows a way to prevent this from happening? A: In the eclipse menu, select the preferences, in the installed software tab, in the General category there is an option to allow the Console to be displayed on launch A: From eclipse.ini,

you can set the option `-startup` we've included the pieces for a Batman-shaped Fortress of Solitude. Batman and Superman are joined by over 20 different vehicles to help Batman save the city! These kits are a great starting point for new builders, and also great for older builders who want to save a bit of money. Supersonic (V1): 1) Number of pieces - 2) Size - 3) Level required - 4) Number of entities - 5) Components - 6) Build time The vehicle has a level of 10 and adds unique flying entities and a special flying path to the game. It has an excellent graphics and sounds. You can control all this features by using pause menu. 10 Components Manual Release Vehicle Special Flying Path Flying entities Wind Loop and Map Effects Great gameplay and graphics Can be solved by the player using the pause menu The graphics shows a bit more vehicle parts and a cockpit. It has a very good, well-structured and a well-detailed model. The graphics are nice and that gives the game good atmosphere. This game is a quite interesting and challenging model. The game play is ok too, but the controls could be better. The basic gameplay is nice, but as soon
