

The universe of Tachyon, The Fringe, is the most dangerous sector of the universe, a war zone split between two rival alliances who fight over resources. The battleground is between the factions of Pyrthia and Dusk. Now, in this next-generation space game, players take the role of a pilot for one of the two rival factions as they wage war against their enemies. Players must earn money to upgrade the ship they will fly as they face increasingly difficult missions for both sides. Players must make the most of the small amount of resources they are given to buy gear for the ship and also upgrade their piloting skills. A smart attack plan against the enemy is the key to success. If players side with Dusk, they will have to defend their own base from Pyrthian attacks. In the other factions, players have the option to attack Dusk's base. Players can then join a network to coordinate attacks and take part in a full battlefield base battle. Endless Missions The game world has been designed to feel like real space. Complete missions to earn money, upgrade your ship and earn rank within the playable squadron. As the player progresses, they will see a change of scenery. Hundreds of Sectors and Systems in the Game Players must choose their faction and pilot their ship to explore the vast game world and make decisions that will affect their future. Player can complete more than 300 different missions and many secrets within the game that will earn them fame and earn the favor of faction leaders. The universe of Tachyon is just the beginning as the game development team has plans to add new ships, sectors and missions to the game. Tachyon: The Fringe: Did you enjoy this demo? Join us and help us to deliver the best game we can make! published:02 Jun 2012 views:67809 This is a very simplistic tutorial on how to fly a starship. There is no system of levers or anything like that, just an in-head throttle simulator. Pratfalls around a bit and I get a bit force-fed on the end, but it is still fun. published:02 Jul 2015 views:9197 This is the portal that leads to the domain of the Nexus

Many supporters of the ‘social market economy’ have jumped on the bandwagon. For example, just last month, the European Social Forum published ‘The Social Agenda for Europe — a Roadmap for the 21st Century’. In it, it points out that the increase in GDP which we have enjoyed since 1950 has not created more equal societies, but we have become less happy and have become ever more unequal (see p.15). The report discusses more evidence on the impact of this economic growth, including the fact that material living conditions of people in developing countries are improving slower than ever before. The U.S. government has just published its economic reports for the fourth quarter of 2010. In them, they continue to argue that GDP measures the size of the economy. They leave out things like the housing market. They don’t measure the well-being of Americans. Richard Koo, one of the most respected economists in the world, explains that the average American is much poorer than they were in 1960. See his blog c9d1549cdd

There is a vehicle collision bug that occurs in our current code. It does not occur in our QA build. We do not know why this is. Due to the nature of the bug, we are unable to port the experience over to qwerty controls until we can figure out a fix. Possible solutions: We are developing a on the fly code engine that will allow us to alter and compile all of the game logic and changes for you. Unfortunately, the engine and code will change at any time. If it changes enough that it breaks the game we will let you know in advance. You will be given the option to either play as if everything was working or begin using your keyboard controls in place of the vr controls. Please reach out via the community forums before you choose this option. Approval Flow There are 2 main levels of approval. The first is if the work can be released at Defcon due to the nature of the experience we can not provide the same level of support. The only thing we can help you with is access to the websites for the forum posts or chatrooms. The second level is that the experience does not need to be released but we do want to help support your game. You will have a chance to pass the approval test. At some point after the experience is released, you will be emailed a test environment that you can try out before the Defcon presentation. If you pass, it will get posted to the Defcon forum and we will retweet the post. Once you have passed, you will have a website for your game. If you don't have a website, we will get you one. You can then tell your friends about your game and help promote it. Some of the other experiences have hundreds or thousands of followers from their Defcon presentation. Also note that we are able to edit the title of the application and website for up to 30 days before you have to submit a new title for the experience. Once the title has been submitted you cannot change it. Update as of June 19, 2020: There is a bug with the vehicle collision detection. The crash occurs at a different time in the game. The best solution currently is to switch to qwerty controls. When you launch the game it will say "Press A to switch to qwerty controls" or something like that. While in this mode you cannot control the character.
