I'm reading this book that talks about smaller groups. If I have a group that is normal, can I still break it up to include extra people if I'm asked to? Eg: Party of n where n>=3. Everyone is there. 1\. Can I ask 2 additional people to come? A: Nothing really preventing it but in practice it's unlikely: The n should be known at the time of the invitation. Another guest must be willing to be there if required (they may not feel like it). This would put the party/event in a totally different order. (3) is probably the most important. If you have a guest you don't want to meet in the same environment, you'll have to find a separate space for them. In short: If you want more people, you must ask them to be there. The n must be known and may not change. If you need to change n, it's going to completely change how the party will be b7e8fdf5c8
