only for identifying the current Xamarin.Forms Viewport. Is the Layout not loaded? My question is, what is the difference between these two properties? Is there any logical difference between them, or is it just a statement of internal implementation details? A: Hierarchy of ID properties: DesignDocument.Id - only available in the Design Document mode Layout.DocumentId - only available in the Viewport mode When you look at the source code, you can see that the DesignDocument.Id is actually a reference to the Layout.DocumentId, so it's a redirection:

public static string Id { get { var layoutDocument =
    m_currentLayoutDocument; return
    layoutDocument == null ?
    Layout.DocumentId : layoutDocument.Id; }

Repeatability of mean arterial pressure in the pharynx and cephalic vein during intubation: a model study. To test the influence of expiratory tidal volume (ETV) and trunk expansion on the distribution of mean arterial pressure (MAP) between the pharynx and the cephalic vein during spontaneous breathing. In 10 healthy volunteers, MAP was recorded simultaneously in the right jugular vein and in the pharynx. Subjects were disconnected from the ventilator and breathed spontaneously with ventilation volume (EV) of 6 l/min, and ETV of 7.5 or 10 ml. Randomized block design. Tertiary care hospital. Subjects: 10 healthy male volunteers (29-42 y). The MAP values in the pharynx (PhaMAP) and the jugular vein (JUV) were compared in 10 consecutive intubations and the mean values over these 10 intubations were calculated for each subject and for each ETV. The MAP values in both the JUV and PhaMAP correlated with the ETV, but MAP in the JUV was higher than PhaMAP ( $P = 0.0015$ ). The mean PhaMAP was 64 mmHg (95% CI 54-74) and the mean JUV was 90 mmHg (95% CI 77-103). Comparing the values in intubations 2 and 6, PhaMAP increased and JUV decreased from 64 to 72 mmHg. During ETV 6, PhaMAP decreased and JUV increased from 74 to 81 mmHg. The difference between PhaMAP and J
