compositionally, the results on this demo are exactly as expected. there's quite a bit of bass and stereo layering on this demo but, otherwise, the drums sound a little muddy. the best way to experience the full-tone, well-layered character of the drums on this demo is to crank the master clock all the way up and to cranked up and set the speaker monitoring to the max. vixen ebony rocroft drums kontakt (2017) is made using the vintage drums by the perfect hour. rocroft creates a rich, unique texture over a simple, familiar structure, with great spacing and velocity. as always, there is a rich variety of tuning and velocity options. "rocroft drums feature a haunting percussive atmosphere with three kinds of natural resins to create a rich, warm, funky tone." -read more alternatives drums from vixen (35) are highly detailed and textured, and feature a unique natural resonance. being a percussive instrument, these are perfect for grooving over the classic 808 kick. they also work well with additional, hi-hats or guiro. the kits available for sale in the vixen website include click, snare, tom, natural, hybrid, and birdie. vixen drums (2.99) - based on the vex drum kits from australia by the vixen. vex is the top drum company in australia. "each kit is comprised of a different set of vex drums; the kits are then meticulously sampled and programmed to bring you the exact dry click sounds of these drums. read more alternativescanadian drums from chorale (63) are modeled after the canadian military percussion instruments. "the chorale is a 16-beat group of drums that was developed in the 1950s by the royal canadian mounted police. it is the standard percussion ensemble for the canadian armed forces. the chorale is made up of 4 drums and a set of cymbals. chorale is primarily found in the infantry, and the drums themselves make up a very distinct part of that performance. it is also used as a marching band replacement ensemble in many units. read more
