there are a number of search engines that can be used to search for torrents, and both the pirate bay and kickass torrents use a similar search function. if you have ever used a torrent search engine like the pirate bay, you will be familiar with the setup. first, a search is conducted on the search engine and the search terms entered are displayed in a dropdown box. you can then select the torrents that meet your search criteria. once you have selected the torrents, the site will search for them on the torrent search engine you have chosen, and a list of available peers is displayed. you can then click on the torrent you want to download to start the download, and the download will be seeded from one or more of the peers on the site.

the pirate bay and kickass torrents are both safe alternatives to torrent sites like rapidshare and megaupload that are under fire due to high rates of piracy and illegal content. both sites have a clean, user-friendly interface that allows users to download torrents quickly and easily. while both sites are just as safe to use, people should always use a torrent client of their choice on top of the websites themselves, and make sure they are using the latest version of the site to ensure they are safe. while the majority of the torrents found on these sites are legal, there are some that contain copyright violations.

in most cases, the violations are so minor it does not harm the overall download, but to protect your computer from being infected, it is advised that you verify torrents before downloading them. verification is the process of confirming that a torrent is legitimate, and is done by checking the url of the torrent file against the url of the website that uploaded the torrent. verified torrents are uploaded to the site by the webmaster who is hosting the site and is taking the time to verify the torrent. if you ever spot a torrent that is not verified, it is best to do a google search for the torrent and see if you can find out who uploaded it. 5ec8ef588b
