History In the 1840s, Preston Quarter was an industrial suburb, but its heavy industry was all but gone by 1900 and it became a residential area. By the 1960s, it had become rundown. It now has a mostly residential nature and is home to various shops and small businesses. Preston Quarter covers two postcode

sectors: Preston North End and Preston Central.

Education There are four primary schools: Preston Quarter Primary School - Baroness of Crewe St John West Primary School - Princess St St James' Primary School - Booth St St John the Evangelist's Primary School - Preston St St Jude's Junior School St Thomas of Aquin RC Primary School References

Category: Areas of Preston Increasing quantities of flammable liquids, such as gasoline, are transported by tank trucks which are large, heavy vehicles designed to transport liquid in large quantities. To prevent spilled gasoline from burning and thus causing damage to the environment and to structures near the spilled gasoline, a significant amount of spilled gasoline is transported to a tank truck and then transported to a storage area while the spilled gasoline is still warm, and the gasoline can be easily and safely collected for eventual collection. In the event a tank truck is damaged, a worker must stay with the tank truck until a replacement tank is received. A problem arises in that the amount of spilled gasoline may be quite high and the spilled gasoline may burn, leaving the atmosphere at and around the spilled gasoline with an unpleasant odor.

Also, there is always an increased concern for workplace safety when transporting flammable liquids. Accordingly, a device and method for allowing easy, safe, clean collection of spilled flammable liquids by a person is desirable. An estimated 5.3 million Europeans currently live in a household with severe visual impairment, such as complete blindness, which is defined as a visual acuity (VA) of 5/200 or worse, and in very low vision, defined as a VA of less than 6/60. According to current estimates, 2.8 million of them are between 50 and 70 years old.
