The world is often apprehensive when it comes to dreams. We are usually pretty hard on our dreams and dream to project, and our dreams set a pretty high bar! But dreams are important! This week, two new entries were added to the NBHS Scavenger Hunt, and the theme is “Dreams.” You may wish it were any theme, but unfortunately, this week you have to stick to your dreams. Last week, I wrote about how dreams can be scary, exciting, or both at the same time! Make sure you bring your camera next week, because you may be inspired to take some dreamy pictures like we were. Here’s what you need to know. If you’re new to the app, don’t know how to get there. If you’re an oldie, I don’t want to break your routine. New User’s Handbook: DreamScape (2015) I first discovered DreamScape when I was new to the app. I met a lot of young people in the Find Friends app, and a lot of them were from high school! DreamScape was the app where they would meet each other online. They would create a profile, and use a “tag” system to label each other. I never really knew the rules for DreamScape, but I was sure that every student and staff member had their own page. Now the program has been turned into a mobile app, with a kind of Facebook-ish look, where you can view a group of people tagged “Dreams” in the same area in a group chat. If you were on an official group page, you would have your own space, with your own image. And it’s safe to say, that all students have a “Dreams” tag on their page, because it was a requirement to “find friends” on the app. Why it’s important to dream!: Dreams are a great way to test yourself. It also a great way to build self-confidence. When you’re young, you dream. At least, most of us have a dream. I’ve got some stories that could be book-length, but I’m not comfortable sharing them. I’m sure you have had some good dreams since you were young, and now is 79a2804d6b
