(Which is a very good thing, because the movie is a bit of a dud.).2d 1005, 1012 (Fla. 1st DCA 1984). 15 This Court is persuaded that the language of Section 440.02, Florida Statutes, the Florida rules of practice and the district court's ruling in McLean, have clearly established that a person is not required to bring an action under Section 440.02 until at least 30 days have elapsed from the date that the Attorney General issues a certificate of no substantial likelihood of success. Under Florida law, the certificate can be issued up to 30 days before the district court's hearing. The 30 day requirement is not met unless the complaint is filed within 30 days of the issuance of the certificate. 16 This Court is further persuaded by the authority of the District Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit, which has recently ruled in similar circumstances. In Au Bon Pain Corp. v. Arctect, Inc., 653 F.2d 61 (2d Cir.1981), the court was faced with a motion by the defendant in a trademark infringement case to dismiss the complaint for failure to bring the action within 30 days of the issuance of the certificate by the Attorney General. The court in Au Bon Pain followed the decision of the Supreme Court in the analogous area of 28 U.S.C. Sec. 1292(b), which provides that an appeal may not be taken from a district court order unless the district court certifies that the order involves
